2021

TUESDAY, APRIL 27, 2021

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK

ABOUT THE SCHOOL OF PROFESSIONAL STUDIES

Columbia University's School of Professional Studies is committed to providing diverse, innovative programs to enable students to succeed in their educational and professional development. Our programs utilize Columbia University's leadership in research and education to deliver flexible traditional and nontraditional programs to meet students where they are in their lives. The School is dedicated to enabling access to education in order to create a richer and more equitable society.

The School's programs are offered in multiple formats: from online asynchronous degree programs that allow full-time professionals to continue their development to intensive in-person programs that enable students to immerse themselves in their studies. Our programs serve high school students, undergraduate and graduate students, and the University's neighbors at every stage of their personal and professional lives. Our Student Life and cocurricular programs ensure that students are able to access career coaching and development, special events and programs, and a wide array of clubs. The Academic Affairs division ensures that programs draw on the latest research to equip our students to innovate across sectors and mobilizes distinguished practitioner adjunct faculty to translate research into practice.

TROY J. EGGERS

Troy Eggers has been a member of the Columbia community for nearly two decades. He was appointed Interim Dean of the School of Professional Studies, effective July 1, 2020. Eggers joined the Office of the Provost in 2011, under then Provost John Coatsworth, with the directive to ensure all aspects of academic management were functioning at the highest levels. As Executive Vice Provost, Eggers oversees the offices of Academic Programs; Faculty Affairs; Teaching, Learning, and Innovation; Faculty Advancement; and Communications and Engagement. Also under his oversight are the International Students & Scholars Office, Columbia University Press, The University Seminars, and the Alliance joint-venture between Columbia, École Polytechnique, Sciences Po, and Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne University. He is a member of the University's Emergency Management Operations Team and has been an integral part of the President's Advisory Task Force on COVID-19.

Prior to his time in the Office of the Provost, Eggers served as Senior Associate Dean of the School of International and Public Affairs, responsible for all student-related and administrative departments and functions. Before that he spent ten years at Columbia Business School, where he ran Executive Education, successfully seeing it through the challenges of the 2007–2008 financial crisis, and for a period also served as Assistant Dean of Executive MBA programs.

ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

LETITIA JAMES

Letitia “Tish” James is the 67th Attorney General for the State of New York. With decades of work, she is an experienced attorney and public servant with a long record of accomplishments. She is the first woman of color to hold statewide office in New York and the first woman to be elected Attorney General.

In 2013, James was elected Public Advocate for the City of New York and became the first woman of color to hold citywide office. As Public Advocate, James served as a watchdog over New York City government agencies and as an advocate for the City’s most vulnerable communities. She transformed the Public Advocate’s office to be a formidable engine for change.

Her office handled over 32,000 constituent complaints and passed more legislation than all previous Public Advocates combined, including a groundbreaking law that banned questions about salary history from the employment process to address the pervasive gender wage gap. James successfully took on the gun industry by pushing New York City’s largest pension fund to divest from gun and ammunition retailers. She fought in court on behalf of children and families on issues including children in foster care, children with disabilities, and tenant protection. New Yorkers overwhelmingly elected James to a second term as Public Advocate in November 2017.

Prior to serving as Public Advocate, James represented the 35th Council District in Brooklyn in the New York City Council for ten years. As a Council Member, she passed the Safe Housing Act, legislation that forced landlords to improve living conditions for tenants in New York City’s worst buildings. She helped uncover the corruption behind the Office of Payroll Administration’s CityTime contract, a scheme that cost New York City over $600 million. She also pushed through a revolutionary recycling package that included expanding plastic recycling, a new clothing and textile recycling program, and increased access to recycling in public spaces.

Before her election to the City Council, James served as head of the Brooklyn Regional Office of the New York State Attorney General’s Office. She resolved hundreds of consumer complaints and investigated predatory lenders who preyed on first-time homebuyers. She assisted the Civil Rights Bureau in its investigation of the NYPD's stop-and-frisk policy and cracked down on firms engaged in deceptive business practices including violations of human rights, environmental laws, and scams targeting immigrants.

James began her career as a public defender at the Legal Aid Society. A proud Brooklynite, she is a graduate of Lehman College and Howard University School of Law.

LEDA STRONG

Leda Strong is a Master of Science candidate in Sports Management at Columbia University’s School of Professional Studies. She received her B.A. in psychology from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and is a proud Tar Heel as well as a proud Lion. She enjoys speaking annually to New York–area students recently admitted to UNC through the University’s alumni association chapter in New York City. Additionally, she holds a dual M.S. in general and special education from Touro College.

Before Columbia, Strong worked in the education space—first as a fourth-grade teacher and basketball coach and later as a community organizer working with educators in the South Bronx. Through these experiences, Strong witnessed firsthand the power that sport has to transform lives, unite communities, and inspire people to strive for their highest potential. She entered the Sports Management program at Columbia in Fall 2019 with a goal to make positive social change through sport.

During her time at the School of Professional Studies, Strong worked with the Columbia Women’s Basketball team as an analyst, helping to lead the “Possession Quality Points” project to optimize coaching strategy. She also served as the events chair on the executive board of SMAC, the Sports Management Association of Columbia, where she worked to unite the Sports Management community with their peers, distinguished alumni, and industry experts. In Spring 2020, she held an internship with Wasserman, a leading sports and entertainment agency, on their Brands and Properties team.

Strong’s passion lies at the intersection of sport and social impact, and her goal is to leverage the power of sport to create a better, more inclusive world. In her spare time, she volunteers as a mentor at CitySquash, an organization that offers both academic and athletic (squash) programming. She tutors, mentors, and serves as the chair of the Supporters’ Club Board at South Bronx United, another local youth development program that uses soccer as a vehicle for social change. She currently does pro bono fundraising consulting and social media management for the first annual G’Owen Strong ride, a 1,100-mile solo charity bike ride along the East Coast with a goal to raise money for glioblastoma research, held in memory of her brother, Owen Strong.

A lifelong New Yorker, she is passionate about giving back to her community—and rooting for the Knicks. She is forever thankful to the Sports Management program at the School of Professional Studies for providing a platform and network for her to marry her two passions, and she looks forward to what the next chapter may hold.

DEAN'S EXCELLENCE AWARD

This annual award is bestowed personally by the Dean each year at graduation and honors exceptional members of the School of Professional Studies community. It is among the highest honors awarded by the School. One honoree is recognized each year in the categories of students, faculty, alumni, and administrators.
