

Enterprise Risk Management

Experienced Cohort Option

Master of Science

About the Experienced Cohort Option

Students with 5+ years of work experience have the option of taking classes with either the general cohort of students or attending the Experienced Cohort classes, which:

Are comprised exclusively of students with 5+ years of work experience

Explore learning objectives through the lens of student's current work projects

Provide an opportunity for a deeper connection to an experienced network of peers

Available Classes

The classes available include the five core courses and the most commonly selected risk category and elective courses.

Scan the QR code for the full list of general cohort classes

Experienced Cohort classes are designed for eligible students in our Master's program, entering fall semester, taking online classes, part time (typically, two classes per semester). These courses are offered in the following sequence:

Semester	Course 1	Course 2
1	Traditional ERM Practices	Strategic Communications for Risk Professionals
2	Value-Based Enterprise Risk Management	External Stakeholder Requirements
3	Strategic Risk Management	Cognitive Bias & ERM
4	Operational Risk Management	Managing Stakeholder Risk in the Organization
5	Information Technology Risk Management	Company Failures
6	ESG & ERM	Capstone

Can eligible experienced students take a mix of both general cohort and Experienced Cohort classes?

Yes, eligible experienced students can mix and match cohorts, giving them the full range of options.

Apply Online
sps.columbia.edu/enterprise-risk-management

Where can I find out more about the Experienced Cohort Option?

Contact the ERM Program at erm@sps.columbia.edu to learn more.

Check out our current and upcoming events